WHAT I KNOW OF FARMING.

BY HORACE GREELEY.

V.

BUYING A FARM.

No one need be told at this day that good land is cheaper than poor—that the former may be bought more cheaply than it can be made. Yet this, like most truths, may be given undue emphasis. It should be considered in the light of the less obvious truth that every farmer may make advantageous use of SOME poor land. The smallest farm should have its strip or belt of forest; the larger should have an abundance and variety of trees; and sterile, stony land grows many if not most trees thriftily. Even at the risk of arousing Western prejudice, I maintain that New England, and all broken, hilly, rocky countries, have a decided advantage (abundantly counter-balanced, no doubt) over regions of great fertility and nearly uniform facility, in that human stupidity and mole-eyed greed can never wholly divest them of forests—that their sterile crags and steep acclivities must mainly be left to wood forever. Avarice may strip them of their covering of to-day; but, defying the plow and the spade, they cannot be so denuded that they will be speedily reclothed with trees and foliage.

I am not a believer that "Five Acres" or "Ten Acres" suffice for a farm. I know where money is made on even fewer than five acres; but they who do it are few, and men of exceptional capacity and diligence.—Their achievements are necessarily confined to the vicinage of cities or manufacturing villages. The great majority of all who live by Agriculture want room to turn upon—want to grow grass and keep stock—and, for such, no more garden or potato-patch will answer. They want genuine farms.

Yet, go where you may in this country, you will hear a farmer saying of his neighbor. "He has too much land," even where the criticism might justly reciprocated. We cannot all be mistaken on this head.

There are men who can each manage thousands of acres of tillage, just as there are those who can skillfully wield an army of a hundred thousand men. Napoleon said there were two of this class in the Europe of his day. There are others who cannot handle a hundred acres, so that nothing is lost through neglect or oversight. Rules must be adapted to average capacities and circumstances. He who expects to live by cattle-rearing needs many more acres than he who is intent on grain-growing; while he who contemplates vegetable, root and fruit culture, needs fewer acres still. As to the direction of his efforts, each will be a law unto himself.

If I were asked by a young man intent on farming to indicate the proper area for him; I would say, "Buy just so large a farm as half your means will pay for. In other words, "If you are worth $20,000, invest half of it in land, the residue in stock, tools, &c.,, and observe the same rule of proportion, whether you be worth $1,000,000 or only $1,000. If you are worth just nothing at all, I would invest in land the one half of that, and no more. In other words, I would either wait to earn $500 or over, or push Westward till I found land that costs practically nothing.

This, then, I take to be the gist of the popular criticism on our farmers as having unduly enlarged their borders: "They have more land than they have capital to stock and till to the best advantage." He who has but fifty acres has too much if he lets part of his land lie idle and unproductive for lack of team or hands to till it efficiently; while he who has a thousand acres has none too much if he has the means and talents wherewith to make the best of it all.

I have said that I consider the soil of New England as cheap, all things considered, for him who is able to buy and work it, as that of Minnesota or Arkansas—that I urge migration to the West only upon those who cannot pay for farms in the old States. I doubt whether the farmers of any other section have, in the average, done better, throughout the last ten years, than the butte makers of Vermont, the cheese dairymen of this State. And yet there is, in the ridgy, rocky, patchy character of most of our Eastern farms, and insuperable barrier of the most economic, effective cultivation. If the ridges were further apart—if each rocky and gravelly knoll were not in close proximity to a strip of bog or morass—it would be different. But the genius of our age points unmistakably to cultivation by steam or some other mechanical application of power; and this requires spacious fields, with few or no obstacles to the equable progress of the plow. I apprehend that, for this reason, the growth of bread-corn eastward of the Hudson can never more be considerably extended, so long as the boundless, fertile prairies can so easily pour their exhaustless supplies upon us.—Fruits, Vegetables, Roots and Grass we must continue to grow, probably in ever increasing abundance; but we of the East will buy our bread-corn largely if not mainly from the West.

He, therefore, who buys land in the Eastern States should regard primarily its capacity to produce those crops in which the east can never be supplanted—Grass, Fruits, Vegetables, Timber. If a farm will produce good Corn or Wheat, that is a recommendation; but let him place a higher value on those capacities which will be more generally required and drawn upon.

In the West, the case is different; for, though Wheat culture still recedes before the footsteps of advancing population, and Minnesota may soon cease to grow for others, as Western New York, Ohio, Indiana, and Northern Illinois, have already done, yet Indian Corn, being the basis of both Beef and Pork, will long hold its own in the Valley of the Ohio and in that of the Upper Mississippi. As it recedes slowly Westward, Clover and Timothy, Butter and Cheese, will press closely on its footsteps.

Good neighbors, good roads, good schools, good mechanics at hand, and a good church within reach, will always be valued and sought; few farmers are likely to disregard them. Let whoever buys a farm whereon to live resolve to buy once for all, and let him not forget that health is not only wealth but happiness—that an eligible location and a beautiful prospect are elements of enjoyment not only for ourselves but our friends; let him not fancy that all the land will soon be gobbled up and held at exhorbitant prices, but believe that money will almost always command money's worth of what-ever may be needed, so that he need not embarrass himself to-day through fear that he may not be able to find sellers to-morrow, and he can hardly fail to buy judiciously and thus escape that worst species of homesickness—sickness of home.

A HEAVY FIND.—Yesterday afternoon a gentleman named William Pate, who recently purchased and is now improving a lot near the eastern terminus of twelfth Street, discovered on his premises a treasure of no trifling import. He was digging for the foundation of a house. Near the roots of an old tree that had long ago been cut down, Mr. Pate was freely using his spade when suddenly it struck something solid and apparently immovable. Digging around the object it was soon brought to light.

It proved to be a small iron chest, rusty, but heavy and solid. It was at once removed from its bed under the earth, and with some difficulty opened Imagine the suprise and delight of Mr. Pate on discovering therein gold to the amount of $5620. With the gold was found a note, and in the note was legibly written:

"Hidden from the soldiers in 1864. If I never return, and this is discovered, the finder will please devote half the amount to charitable purposes, and the balance he can keep for his own use. I am an old man, with not a relative in Missouri.

J. C. WAITE."

The money has been placed in a bank. Mr. Pate, we understand, intends fulfilling the written request of the old man to the letter, and especially gladly, no doubt, will he appropriate "the balance" referred to in Mr. Waite's note.—Kansas City News, February 18.

A wealthy farmer of St. Paris, Ohio, committed suicide on the 15th instant. No reason for the rash act is given; but a paper containing one of Mr. Greeley's confessions of "What I Know About Farming," was found tightly clasped in his right hand.

Mrs. Happy Morse, sister of Miss Betsy Thomas, who died in Portland, Me., on the 11th instant, aged 96 years, died in the same city on the 20th, aged 99 years and 10 months.—Their brother, Elias Thomas, aged 98 years, still remains in good health.

TENNESSEE is to be reconstructed according to Ben Butler's ideas.

HON. JOHN COVODE has been exonerated from the charge of selling cadetships.

SAN DOMINGO is almost unanimously in favor of annexation to the United States.

OHIO is to talk about giving the right of suffrage to the female sex, next Thursday.

THE witnesses in the Cadetship investigation, rather than be brought before the Committee are leaving for parts unknown.

THE convention which met in Pittsburg last week to recognize the Deity in the Constitution, elected Hon. Wm. Strong, U. S. Associate Justice, as President.

MR. CLAPP, the public printer at Washington gave a collation to President Grant and the Printing Committees of both Houses. All of which is butter for his bread.

PREPARATIONS are being made in Washington for a jubilation over the fifteenth amendment. All colors and sizes are to participate, and wont there be a jolly time!

THE Ways and Means Committee have decided to reduce the taxation thirty millions, and a number are for the entire abolition of the income tax. Taxpayers can breathe freer after this announcement.

IN response to a floral offering tendered him by a lady at the government printing office the other day, the President blushed, bowed and retired; but when he got out of sight of the ladies he remarked: "If I had been Johnson I should have made a speech."

THE statement that the late E. M. Stanton committed suicide, going the rounds of the newspaper press, is denied by his friends, who state that in his last moment he was attended by Surgeon General Barnes, and that after his death his remains were visited by a number of old friends.

MR. RODGERS, a member of Congress from Arkansas, has received four leather medals from the female employees of the Treasury Department, in acknowledgment of his services in endeavoring to strike out the appropriation for female clerks from the legislative appropriation. Mr. Rodgers can appreciate his booty to his soul's content.

TOTAL depravity no doubt has an existence, but to assure every one who by the commission of crime, is unfortunate enough to get into prison is totally depraved is wrong, and to treat them as if they were still worse. The annual report of the Philadelphia Society for the Alleviation of Misery in the Public Prisons shows that much good has been done through "moral suasion" towards elevating the tone of the convicts. The report asserts that visitors have accomplished this work. It is very natural that good should come of this, as there are very few so hardened, even in our jails, that are not bettered by contact with those who can say a kindly word to them and cast about them an air of an elevating nature.

TAKING THE CENSUS.—Applications for appointment as census-takers are now becoming quite numerous, and the Marshals are likely to have their hands full of this business for some time to come. As Congress has resisted all new plans the census this year will be taken on the same basis as in 1850 and 1860. The law of 1850 provides that the census shall be taken by the United States Marshals of the respective districts, with the aid of such assistants as shall be required.—Each State is divided into census districts to be composed of not less than twenty thousand persons. The assistants for taking the census are appointed and commissioned by the Marshal and are paid their compensation as follows:—Two cents for every name taken, ten cents for every farm, fifteen cents for every productive establishment of industry, two cents for every deceased person and two per cent. of the gross amount for names enumerated, for social statistics, and ten cents per mile for travel. The enumeration must begin the first day of June, and the census must be completed and the returns all sent in to the Secretary of the Interior by the first of November following. The Superintendent of the census is Francis A. Walker, late of the Bureau of Statistics, and Assistant Special Commissioner of Revenue. It will be seen by the foregoing that the compensation, afforded an enumerator, providing the district allotted to him shall not contain less than 20,000 persons, would be about $600, or more. The Marshal is forbidden, by law to accept any bribe or consideration, for an appointment of assistant, and is liable to $1,000 fine if he should be convicted of so doing.

Recent experiments made in Germany by the military authorities show that a sheet of ice three inches thick affords a perfectly safe passage for infantry or horses marching in single file, and for light carriages; with a thickness of six inches it will bear all sorts of wagons and cannon. The bearing power of the ice may be increased by covering it with straw, and laying planks under the wagon-wheels.

REMARKABLE DISCOVERIES.—A most singular and wonderful discovery has been made in Sullivan county, Indiana. The footprints of civilization have been discovered one hundred and eighty feet below the surface of the earth in the Corryville mines and the above mentioned depth. Perfect impressions of leaves, limbs, bushes and other samples of vegetation were taken out, together with the sole of a shoe or a sandal in a complete state of petrifaction. "The heel of the shoe is perfect, and in it the resemblance of nails or tacks is plain and distinct. Besides these the petrified body of a serpent, five feet three inches long, was unearthed. The Sullivan Union in commenting on this wonderful discovery, says:

"When this discovery is seriously considered in connection with the general formation of the earth for a circumference of seventy and eighty miles around—there not being a hill of any material hight—not a ravine of a depth worth a remark—not a cavern, and the Wabash, the largest stream within this scope, and the earth almost, level, and thickly and heavily timbered. What mind can go down into the bowels of the earth one hundred and eighty feet, beneath the firmly rooted oaks of the forest, and solve the mysteries there unfolded? What intelligent being can stand and look upon these marks of civilization, which have been buried for ages upon ages, and feel that he is not treading upon "hallowed ground?" What pen can explain or convey a correct appreciation of this connecting link or joining of hands, as it were, with those who must have existed years before the flood? Indeed, we are lost in wonder and shall leave the solution to the more experienced."

Distressing Affair.

Friday afternoon last, at 5 o'clock, a distressing affair occurred at Dickson's Pond, near Newburg, N. Y., in the drowning of a young man named Thomas McCullough, in full sight of two hundred people who were on the pond. It seems that McCullough, in company with a friend came up from New Windsor early in the afternoon for the purpose of skating on the pond, and enjoyed themselves for several hours in that recreation. In the course of the afternoon a number of persons broke through the ice and some of them were only saved with the greatest difficulty. When it was seen that the sport was attended with danger, that the ice was not thick enough for safety, many left the pond. The deceased and his friend, however, continued skating, and at about 5 o'clock, both of them broke through the ice within a few feet of each other, and at a point opposite Mr. Odell's icehouse. Mr. McCullough's friend by dint of swimming and breaking his way through the ice managed to get where the water was shallow and made his way out. But Mr. McCullough was less fortunate. He struggled in the water for some time, the ice breaking away under his grasp.—At first he seemed confident, as did those who were watching him, that he would succeed in getting out on the ice, and he struggled on without uttering a word. But it soon became evident that his strength was failing. There were at this time from one hundred and fifty to two hundred persons on the pond. Ropes and planks were brought and thrown out to him, and now every effort that could be made was made to save him. His comrade called out to him to keep up his courage, and help would soon reach him, but the drowning man made no answer, and kept struggling on. He grasped a rope that was thrown to him, and an effort was made to draw him out of the water, but his benumbed fingers could not retain hold of the rope, and it was pulled away from him. Again and again was it thrown to him, and with the same fruitless results. Parties approached within twenty feet of him, and pushed out boards to him, but he was unable to avail himself of the help offered.—His strength was now almost spent.—A boat was got out from the shore, but this aid came too late. The drowning youth was seen to open his lips—which all the time of this struggle for life, 10 minutes, had been kept tightly closed, and attempted to speak, but what he desired to say never reached the ears of the bystanders, for just then his struggles ceased and he disappeared beneath the surface.

A NOVEL SCENE IN A NEW YORK COURT.—At the close of the trial recently, in the Queens, Court House, of Philip Sheridan, indicted for arson in Flushing, L. I., on the night of the 23d of November, the rendition of the verdict was remarked by the singular conduct of the jurors. After a short deliberation the jury returned to the court room. The foreman, in answer to the usual question, rose and said that a verdict of guilty had been agreed on. Judge Armstrong then sentenced the prisoner to the State Prison for three years and six months. After the sentence had been pronounced three of the jurors denied that they had agreed to the verdict, which had been rendered. The jury were therefore sent back for re-deliberation. After a short interval they were again called before the bar and the foreman again announced that they had agreed upon a verdict of guilty. The Judge then asked if they were unanimous in this finding, and in reply one of the twelve deliberately rose and repudiated the words of the foreman. The rest of the jurors were thunderstruck. Observing their consternation, the recreant began to reflect. For some minutes his cogitation was intense.—Then, with a sigh of resignation, he submitted, and the prisoner gave up hope that for a moment he had entertained.

Death in Kerosene.

The Milwaukee Sentinel of a recent date says:

Notwithstanding all that has been said and written upon the careless and dangerous practice of lighting fires with kerosene, the practice is indulged in to a great extent, and within the past two days has been the source of two terrible accidents, through which three young women were horribly and fatally burned. The first accident took place at the residence of Mr. Wheelock.

On Saturday morning, a trifle after 6 o'clock, the residence of Mr. Peter Wheelock, on the corner of Jackson and Division streets, resounded with shrieks from the basement. Mr. Wheelock immediately ran down stairs, and was horrified to find the servant girl, Maggie Doyle, writhing in pain upon the floor, her clothes and hair a blaze. Beside her, near the stove, lay a quart kerosene can, with the bottom blown out, which told at a glance the cause of the poor girl's misfortune. Quick as thought Mr. Wheelock seized his overcoat, and enveloping the shrieking girl, smothered the flames. The physicians have abandoned all hopes of her recovery. Miss Doyle is about twenty-years of age, and was the only support of an aged and widowed mother.

The next accident similar in cause and result, took place at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning. Veheims National Hotel, corner of West Water and Flower Streets, was the scene of another accident, by which two girls, cooks in the establishment, were so badly burned that the physicians pronounced them beyond a hope of recovery. Mr. George Langley, runner for the hotel, had just returned from the Union Depot, and was pumping two pales of water in the basement, some fifteen feet from the kitchen door, when he heard the sound of an explosion, followed by screams. He hurried to the kichen door, which opened inward from the hall, but found it blocked by some one upon the inside. Divining the trouble he immediately knocked a panel out of the door and found the girls enveloped in flames. Recognizing the porter they opened the door, and, placing their burning arms about him, cried amid shrieks and groans "Oh, George, save us, save us!" Mr. Langley, finding that he could not release himself in the hall, rushed out into the yard with the girls, where he disengaged himself, taking off his overcoat, ran after one of them and caught her just as she reached the street. He quickly threw the garment over her and managed to smother the fire. While Mr. Langley was busy with the unfortunate girl upon the walk, the clerk of the hotel, aroused by the shrieks and groans, reached the yard and tore the burning clothing from the other girl, who was chasing about the yard in great agony. With permission of Dr. Shearman, the physician in charge, the eldest of the girls was allowed to relate the circumstances attending the accident. She gave her name as Matilda Jahr; said she was eighteen years of age; said she and companion, Caroline Eckstar, got up late and in their hurry to get breakfast on time, could not get the fire to burn when she ran up stairs and got a gallon can of kerosene, and commenced to pour some of the oil upon the fire while her companion stooped and blew the kindling at the hearth draught. Quicker than thought fire communicated to the can, and, blowing the bottom out, scattered its burning contents over them.

Executions at Santiago, Cuba.

NEW YORK, March 3d.—A Havana letter gives the details of the arrest and execution by the Spaniards of the alleged Cuban Junta at Santiago. The arrests numbered forty to fifty, and, as already published, eighteen have been executed, including two Americans. The executed gentlemen, when arraigned before the military commission that condemned them, admitted the existence of the association to which they belonged, but denied its being a political junta, but only a Masonic lodge; that they met together as Masons for Masonic purposes, and not as politicians for political purposes.—This defense appears to have angered instead of satisfied the Spaniards. A Catalonian priest, who has been noted for the ultraism of his loyalty and violent denunciation of Cubans, immediately pronounced Free Masons no better than insurgents; that the rising of Yara was plotted and planned in a Masonic lodge; that Cespedes is a Mason, and that wherever Masons congregate there Spanish loyalty dies. The American Consul, Mr. Phillips, ably seconded by Mr. Ramsden, the British Consul, endeavored hard to save the lives of his two countrymen, Dannery and Portuondo, but without success. The volunteers insisted upon their life blood being shed, as well as that of their Cuban associates, and thwarted all appeals to the Lieutenant Governor of the District to spare them. The two Americans were Free Masons, and one of the Cubans was Senor Andres la Puente, the Grand Orient of the Masons of the island.

Mr. Phillips reports that the remaining prisoners are to be executed soon, but statements from other sources are that the Lieutenant Governor is opposed to any more executions, and has written to Rodas for instructions. The volunteers, headed by Col. Boet, were furious at the delay, and clamoring loudly for the execution of all the arrested parties. It may have happened already that the Lieutenant Governor had to succumb to their demands. I am assured that other Americans are also included in the lot. Mr. Phillips has asked the American Government for a man-of-war. The British Consul has also written his Government that a British war vessel should be kept constantly at his disposal.

Just before leaving Boston, Prince Arthur sent to Miss Minnie Sherman, daughter of General Sherman, a chaste and costly gold medallion, having his likeness on one side and that of Queen Victoria on the other. Accompanying the gift was a delicately worded note, in which the Prince begged that Miss Sherman would accept the medallion as a token of his appreciation of the generous hospitalities he had experienced at the house of her father, and as a slight tribute to the beauty of American women, of which she was so striking an exponent.

Militia Company.

In accordance with a call made to organize a Militia Company, a meeting was held at the Court House on Wednesday evening, 2nd inst. By proclamation, Milton S. Lytle, Esq., was appointed chairman, and B. Frank Isenberg, Secretary of the meeting.

The names of those already enrolled were then called out and the men formed in line across the room. Additional enrollments were then made, until the names on the list numbered 102—about twenty more than the maximum number allowed by law. On motion of L. Frank Wattson, a portion of the acts of Assembly regulating the organization of the Militia and governing of companies after being formed was read by Mr. Lytle, the Chairman, and some explanation given of the object and duties of the company.

On motion, Messrs. W. K. Burchinell, E. S. McMurtrie and John A. Mabon were appointed a committee to notify the Governor that a sufficient number of men had been enrolled to form a company, and asking him to order an election of officers in accordance with the law.

On motion of W. K. Crites, adjourned to meet at the call of the Chairman of the committee above mentioned, when said committee is ready to report.

B. F. ISENBERG,
Secretary.

☞ The report of the Adjutant General of Pennsylvania just issued, shows the presence of a very considerable military spirit in our midst, and also proves that that spirit is on the increase. In 1867 there were but thirty-eight companies of uniformed militia in existence in the whole State. In 1868 they had increased to seventy-eight companies. This year shows 168 companies in actual organization and 25 companies are organizing. Of the 107 companies organized during 1869, 56 in Philadelphia. The city companies are organized in regiments, which are in turn brigaded, forming the First division Pennsylvania State militia.

ROSADALIS

THE Great American Health Restorer, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women and all Chronic Affections of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys. It is recommended by the Medical Faculty and thousands of our best citizens.

Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

"Dr. H. W. Carr, of Baltimore, says:—

I take pleasure in recommending your Rosadalis as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in cases of secondary syphilis, in which the patient, pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of all alterative ingredients."

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of scrofula, and secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleaner of the blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreeboro', Tennessee, says:

I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has Scrofulous sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by John Read and S. S. Smith, Huntingdon, Pa., and Druggists generally.

Disastrous Fire.

About eleven o'clock on Saturday night last, the alarm of fire was rapidly circulated through our streets, and a large number of our citizens were hastening to the National Hall, owned by Muritz Richter & Sons, where the fire was. The flames originated in the back part of the building, and spread with rapid fury, soon enveloping the whole structure, and in about two hours it was completely consumed. The burning building being situated alone on an elevation, and fronting on Franklin street illuminated the whole town, and the vicinity for several miles around, and presented a scene awfully grand. Unfortunately, no water could be procured to place in the engines, and the exertions of our citizens were spared to see the fiery elements the unchecked master of situation. Most of the furniture and other articles, were taken out of the bed rooms and sitting room in the front part of the building.

The Hall was erected in the spring of 1868, and was a large frame building, the hall being adapted to hold about 400 persons. The front part was occupied by Mr. Richter's family, and to the left was a small building used as a bar-room. At the time of the fire, the family and some others were sitting in the front part of the house, when they heard a noise like an explosion in the rear. On going back smoke was seen issuing from the rear of the hall, and the alarm of fire was at once given. The explosion, some allege, was occasioned by a coal oil lamp, and caused the fire, while others think the fire was the work of incendiaries.

The loss is about $5000, which is insured for $4000 in the Germania.

Attempted Escape of Bohner.

On Friday morning last, about 7 o'clock, Mr. David Long, the guard in the jail, went into Bohner's cell to sweep it, leaving the door open. As he was doing so Bohner walked out and went into the hall, which Mr. Long discovered, and immediately ran after him, and caught him around the waist as he was about to go down the stairs. Bohner struggled to get loose, when Long called for assistance. Sylvester Butler, one of the prisoners, came up the stairway, and was told by Long to get a poker, which he did, and he was obliged to use it six times, and inflicted some ugly gashes in Bohner's head and badly bruising his arm. It required desperate efforts to get Bohner back to his cell, and while doing so, he cut Long several times on the left side of the head with his manacles, (which he had got loose some time during the night.) As they were scuffling, Bohner saw the keys of the cells lying on the window-sill, and he swept them with his hands towards Bodenberg's cell, but he did not make any effort to get out. Bohner received medical attention at once, and notwithstanding the extent of the injuries which would have killed any ordinary man, he was as talkative and unconcerned as ever the next day.

THIEF CAUGHT.—On Monday last, Albert Walker, a colored man, was arrested in this borough for stealing a $100 bill. He had been in the employ of Mrs. John Maguire, and in the morning was told to take a bucket of coal up to the bed-room, when he made search for something to pick up and pocket, and happened to find a pocket book under the pillow. He took out the $100 bill and left the pocket book on the bed. Mrs. M. missed the money and suspicion resting on Albert the constable was sent after him, and when arrested he had $96 in his possession, having had the bill changed in bank. This he gave over, and we was taken to jail.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.—On Monday a week ago a colored boy named John Lewis struck a white boy named Levi Westbrook on the head with a club and fractured his skull. A crowd of boys were tormenting him, when he turned on them, and Westbrook was the victim. He is under surgical attention of Dr. Brumbaugh, and is still in a critical condition.

ACCIDENT.—A man named George Edmundson on Saturday night last attempted to get on a train at the coal wharf above town, while intoxicated, when his foot caught between the bumpers of the cars, and his left foot was badly crushed. He was brought to town and is under treatment of Dr. Brumbaugh.

THE FOUNDLING DEAD.—Minnie Bell the waif left at Dr. E. J. Greene's residence on the 15th of January last, died on Monday morning last at 11 o'clock. She had been sickly ever since she was left at the house, but has received constant attention from the family. She was about ten weeks old. It will be buried on Thursday.

More Bounty.

Soldiers who enlisted for ONE YEAR and were discharged by "competent authority" before the expiration of their term of service, are entitled to one hundred dollars bounty, under a recent Act of Congress and a decision of the Attorney General.

P. M. & M. S. LYTLE, Attorneys at Law, Huntingdon, Pa., are prepared to make applications for this bounty, and persons who are entitled to it can have it promptly collected by applying to them.

Other bills are pending before Congress, (which when passed, will give bounties to a large number of persons who have not heretofore been entitled to them. It is proposed to give fifty dollars to the widow, children, father or mother, in the order named, of NINE MONTHS' soldiers who died or were killed in the service.

All soldiers and others who desire to know whether they are entitled to bounties can obtain the information by sending their discharges to or calling personally on P. M. & M. S. Lytle, at their office in Huntingdon. 2t

RACHEL BAHN'S POEMS.—These poems were written under circumstances of a peculiar character, and are the product of a mind trained in the school of more than ordinary affliction. During a period of eighteen years the writer was confined to a bed of sickness; her disease being a spinal affection, disabling her from walking or even assuming an erect position on her couch of affliction. What renders her condition still more painful, is the fact that both her parents, whom she ardently loved, and who always faithfully provided for her wants, were, in the providence of God, removed by the hand of death.

Being thus left to herself, with an affectionate sister as her only companion, and secluded from all personal intercourse with society at large, she devoted herself, as she had previously done, to the reading of useful books—books of devotion and science—and to the composition of prose and poetry in both the English and German languages, with a zeal and pertinacity truly astonishing. As the different subjects on which the poems treat, have been a source of rich consolation to the writer in her affliction, the hope is indulged that they will prove equally beneficial to others, in similar circumstances.

These Poems are for sale at Lewis' Book Store. Price $1.75.

☞ A feat of strength is thus recorded by the West Chester Republican: Mr. Gideon Miles of West Chester, now in his sixty-third year, is, perhaps one of the strongest men in Chester county. On several occasions recently he has surprised his friends by performing the following feat, which certainly requires great muscular power and strength of nerves: He will take a weight of fifty or sixty pounds, add eight more pounds to it, then raise it on his little finger and with a piece of chalk in the same hand, write his name on a blackboard or other surface, in good legible characters. He will then add eight pounds more, making in all Seventy two pounds, and perform the same feat.

An interesting insurance case has just been decided by the law courts of Maine. The plaintiffs were H. W. Lancey & Co., of Portland, whose store was insured by the Phœnix Insurance Company of New York for $3000. The store was burned in the great fire of 1866. The Company refused payment on the ground that the store was situated on leased land, and the agent of the Company had omitted to state the fact in the policy. The Court decided in favor of the plaintiffs, awarding the full amount of the insurance, with interest from 1866, with costs.

FULL PARTICULARS.

The Prisoners' Letters.

It was stated some weeks ago that both Bohner and Bodenberg were engaged in writing confessions which they did not want published until after they were hung. We have had these letters placed in our possession, and showed them to Rev. L. D. Steckel, who talks and reads German, and is Bodenberg's spiritual adviser, and he assured us there was nothing in them but what has not already been made public, with the exception of their former history. Learning this we came to the conclusion not to publish them, as they are very lengthy—Bohner's covering 95 pages of letter paper, and Bodenberg's 155 pages of foolscap. In company with Mr. Steckel, we visited Bohner's cell on Wednesday morning last, when the following history of his life was elicited, and this, he says, is the substance of what he had written.

GOTLEIB BOHNER.

He was born in Wittenburg, Germany, on the 15th of May, 1830; his parents were in easy circumstances; his father was a farmer. At the age of six he went to school, according to the custom of the country, and remained until he was fourteen. He then served three years as a miller with his uncle. From there he went to E——e (we could not learn from him the full name,) where he remained three years as a guard at the public parks. At the latter part of this service the following incident occurred: There were a half a dozen persons (poachers) who stole game from the parks, and an expedition was sent out against them. An engagement ensued in which one of the poachers was killed and three wounded, and, also two of the superintendents of the park were killed. A reward of $200 was offered for the capture, dead or alive, of the other two poachers, when some time afterward Bohner saw two men in the park who he suspected as being the poachers and forthwith shot them. He alleged that he could not capture them in any other way. He afterwards entered the military service and served for three years, when he went home and again enlisted as a lieutenant. A jealousy sprang up between him and another lieutenant on account of a girl, when the latter challenged him to a duel, which he accepted. The duel was fought by drawing lots for the first shot which his opponent won. He shot at Bohner but merely grazed his cap, when Bohner shot him through the breast and killed him. He was fined $3000 for this offence, and then left the service, and returned home. He was then 26 years old, and staid at home until he was thirty-four. His parents both being dead he came to this country in May 1863, and enlisted in the 70th New York regiment for two years. During this period another incident occurred: After the battle of Peapbottom, Va., he was on the battle-field and was picking up a knapsack, when a rebel ordered him to let it alone. He turned and shot him dead. In going off the field he was wounded in the foot and was then taken to the hospital at City Point, where he was when the final surrender was made. His regiment was dismissed near New York; he remained in New York about a year; came to Philadelphia, and after remaining there a short time he came to Dudley, this county. While there he was arrested on the charge of stealing goods and killing a calf, and brought in, this Court and tried and sentenced to two years in the Western Penitentiary. At the expiration of this time he came back and worked on the canal between Mapleton and Altoona. This he continued to do until he was arrested. Of the particulars of his going to Feightals' and of the murder he relates the same statement that Albert made some time ago, with the exception that Albert did the murder and he kept watch.

ALBERT BODENBERG.

He was born in the city of Hanover, Germany, on the 17th of October, 1839. His father kept hotel; at the age of six he went to school, at eleven he studied music; at 14 he went to the Gymnasium to prepare himself for school teaching. He taught school about sixteen months, but not liking the pursuit he went to cabinet making, at which he remained three years. In 1857 went to Holland and enlisted for the Crimean war two years. He next went to Switzerland, where he became private secretary to his uncle, and remained with him over a year. He enlisted again in the Schleswig-Holstein war, and became a captain. He went home again and shortly afterwards enlisted in the same war, but did not go into active service.—On his return from the war he was arrested on board a vessel between Hamburg and Haburg suspected of smuggling goods, upon which a duty was imposed that he knew nothing of, and sent to prison for eighteen months. He then came to America in January 1866, and after landing at New York he was robbed of $2500 which he had in his possession. He then went to a cabinet maker at Elizabethtown; came back to New York and worked in a piano manufactory.—Then went to Philadelphia, staid about four weeks but getting no work he came to Broad Top; staid there a short time and then came to Birmingham, this county, and staid there about six months. He then went to Hollidaysburg; then to Tyrone where he was arrested on the charge of stealing carpenter tools. He was tried and sentenced to the Penitentiary for one year. In May, 1869, he went to Altoona and went to work in the lumber-yard.

He got acquainted with Bohner in Altoona in September. While lying in bed they planned going to Feightal's to rob. They both went to Feightal's two weeks before the 17th of November, and then went back to Hollidaysburg where they each bought pistols. On Monday the 15th of November they started for Feightal's again, and that night slept in his barn, and staid about there the next day, Tuesday, and that night slept in the house. On Wednesday they went to a hotel in McConnellstown, where they drank some cider and bought a pint of brandy. On Wednesday evening about seven o'clock the murder was committed. Bodenberg still asserts that he watched while Bohner went in and did the deed. They came to Huntingdon the same night, and got on the 3 o'clock train. They were arrested at Altoona and brought to the Huntingdon jail on Thursday, where they have remained ever since, although they planned to escape twice.

THE MURDERED FAMILY.

The victims of the murder were Mr. John Feichtal, aged about 65 years, a respectable and well-to-do farmer; Mrs. Sarah Feichtal, about the same age, and Scott Garner, a boy of ten years, who was staying with them.—They lived in a house about three-quarters of a mile from Pleasant Grove, a station on the Huntingdon and Broad Top Railroad, about seven miles from here. Mr. Feichtal was shot in front of the left bar, and his body burned on the right side up to his head; Mrs Feichtal was shot on the right side of the neck, her skull was knocked in above the right ear, and the lower portion of her body burned up to her waist; Scott Garner was shot on the left side of the head, the bullet passing through, and his one leg was burned and his left side partially. The murderer had covered all the bodies with bed clothing and then set fire to them.

HOW THE DEED WAS DONE.

(From the Monitor.)

The following statement is from the pen of Bodenberg who alleges it is what Bohner told him recently. We give it as we received it, and have no comments to offer.

Every one acquainted with our affair will recollect that we had a whisky bottle. From the time we came away from that place to Huntingdon I did not see or hear any more about it. Had at different times intended to ask Charley but never came so far. On the 19th of Feb. I was lying on my bed in my cell thinking over our affairs; how great a misfortune a few drinks of whisky might bring about; I also, in this connection came to think of our bottle; I rose up and asked Charley what had become of our bottle, "Oh," said he, "that d——d Irish woman broke it to pieces." I asked him, how did this happen? did you not hit her right? "Oh," said he, "I don't know." He now continues: "As I came into the house they all three sat around the table and ate" and said he "you know where each one had his seat at the table, you also have been in at different times while they were seated at table," I said "yes," "Then he said, "I went to the side where the old man sat and stood by the stove; then the Irish woman commenced to ask what I wanted here again, that I had been there the last night and now I was there again but this night she could not keep me, I appeared to her to be a loafer who had not much stomach for working. Then I pulled the bottle out of my pocket and drank out the last that was in it. Then I took a pistol in each hand and said neither have I any stomach to work. I want your money and that quickly, or I'll shoot every one of you Then I held the pistols at them. Then the old woman said they had nothing and what they had I could not have. I should go to work, I was a loafer. This made me mad, and so likewise it cracked. I shot the old man through the head and not another sound escaped him. At the same time I shot the old man the boy fell also He groaned around on the floor. Then I shot the old woman, but it seems did not hit her rightly. She fell back on her chair but said nothing. Then I loaded again one of the pistols, and gave the boy a shot; he thereupon stopped his groaning. I now tried to load again, but as I was loading the old woman caught me by the arm, and stood up from the chair and tried to place herself upon the defence. I however immediately threw her down on the floor alongside of the old man.—Then I again tried to load but did not succeed, for the old woman picked up the fire shovel and struck at me and hit me on my coat pocket where I had the bottle, I then also caught hold of the shovel, but she also kept her hold. I dragged her in this way to the door. She begged however during the time I dragged her to the door that I should spare her life. This provoked me the more. I forced the shovel from her hands and Lord! I tell you I beat her scull to pieces with the shovel.—As she now showed no more signs of life I went to the old man, and hunted through his pockets for the keys but he had none. Then I went into the sleeping room but all things were locked; then I went up stairs and found corn lying at a place—opposite to this was a door, I opened it and found bere hanging a great many sausages. Here also I found by this door a hatchet, I then went down to the sleeping room to brake open the bureau. I broke open the first drawer, here I found a bag with gold and silver. As I could find nothing more I tried to brake open the next drawer but the latchet broke. I had then to go to hunt the axe. I found it outside. I then went in again broke open the next bureau drawer. In this second one I found a book containing a good deal of paper money. After I had secured all this I found a glove with gold and silver in it. In the third drawer no money was found. I then broke open a chest, here I found another little bag with gold and silver and also a book with paper money.—This was all the money I could find. I then tied up the pantaloons and coat pieces of apparel; took this bundle to the barn; took back two bundles of straw and spread it over the three persons. Then I fetched the bed covers and bed clothes out of the sleeping room where I got the money and spread them also over these persons. In one room stood a bed and small table. In this table drawer lay the razor which I gave you at Altoona.—Then I went into the room where the three persons lay. I first set fire to boy, then to the old man, then also to the old woman. As I was going out the dog came in and went to the old man and wagged his tail. This again provoked me when I was trying to drive the dog out and he would not readily go. I then shut the door and went to you." Before he set fire to the old woman he said he first did something which is not suitable to tell, neither could it help anything to the matter in hand. This is all I could find out from Charley. He told me as he naturally would, that I should not say anything to anybody. Neither is it likely that he will confess to what I have said should he be asked. Nor to the truth in any particular, for a man who says the whole Bible is a falsehood, and that our Lord Jesus Christ is an illegitimate child will also avoid telling the truth. So it is with Charley, and this is my misfortune, for had he confessed the truth I could not have been found guilty for the punishment of death. This I said the first day I was brought to jail that I was not guilty of this murder and also that I know nothing of it until I came to Altoona, and so I will have to say still at the last morning when I will be taken down into the yard to be hung. ALBERT BODENBURG.

A LETTER FROM BOHNER.

On Tuesday morning last, Bohner wrote the following letter which he styles the "Last will of one about to Die:"

Beloved in the Lord: It is a matter of labor to collect my thoughts to say unto you my farewell. I pray all whom I may have offended not to treasure up any anger against me, but to pardon me since I am about to recall and do now recall, all, before I depart. I depart from this life in the consciousness that I am at peace with God. I therefore take this cup of bitterness with comfort. To please myself immediately before the judgment seat of God as I approach the shores of eternity. Since I constantly pray and commune with Him silently. This causes me comfort and happiness hereafter. I speak in this manner to God, and not to man. I feel myself offended in this when men undertake to teach me. I have in Ge. many myself ied in prayer meeting and know too well that a man can by himself be converted. I have myself experienced the right nearness of God since I have walked the blood way, and let the darkness way which leadeth unto life. Whether man will pardon me I do not know, yet I hope that God will have mercy on me at the last day of Judgment. Beloved citizens of Huntingdon: By the time you will have seen my last writing and my last words, I will likely not be any more, for the messenger of death stands at the door with his flaming sword, and demands my soul. Whether I am guilty or not guilty I am not able to judge, therefore I leave it in the hands of God. He is the righteous Judge; His power, fail word I shall soon hear, and will submit myself to His righteous punishment. Beloved friends; That may so call you, causes me a peculiar pleasure. I cannot, by word of mouth tell you. You may therefore receive it from my pen, for the pain which I suffer prevents me from telling you; for I take nothing out of this world but the empty pages, wherein I make known my tears and complaints. My tears flow while I am writing. My last tears rest upon this page. Think of me here as I will think of you in yonder happy world! I have no fears of the grave. I rather long for it, because I should there find rest from pain and trouble suffered and endured.

Beloved, all in Huntingdon, I say once more to you my farewell; with the hope however to see each other in the region beyond, where pain and trouble shall be no more where God will wipe away all tears from our eyes, where we shall all bloom in everlasting spring. I will beseech God in your behalf, and will consecrate to you my last sigh. My last though for you, death will translate me into the better life. Let me here conclude. My hand trembles. Tears blind my eyes. To testify to the truth of this I seal it with my death and attest it with my own signature. Very respectfully.

GOTLEIB VON BOHNER.

Another Confession to God and People.

On the 15th of November, we went on the railroad to Huntingdon, where we got off and went to the place where the deed was done. Bodenburg said that the farmer had gold and silver, and then I believed what he had said to Mrs. Gable in Altoona before I knew him, that he was to get gold and silver from Germany. [This lady was here as a witness in Court and her story was believed.] I found out last spring when I was in the same boarding house with him, that the farmer had gold and silver. He said to me he wanted to steal it all from him. He worked as a Cabinet maker in the Round House in Altoona and made for himself a large knife for that purpose. We went to the place to steal the first time, one month before, but could not do anything and went away again to Altoona. I went to work again, and he went to a man that had a daughter and spent his time with her. He had no money and no work. This knife that he had he threw into the canal at Huntingdon when we were there the first time. He made this girl great promises of much money, which brought him to the thought on murder. We came to the farm and slept of Tuesday night in the house. My pistol I laid out on the window according to his orders and he said that he would get up in the night but we were very tired and slept til daylight. We staid in the neighborhood that day and he told me how he would make it; that he wanted my pistol and his, one in each hand, and he would demand the money. We both went into the house when they were eating supper, and I held the door shut so they could not slip out. He spoke in English what he wanted, and the farmer and his wife spoke English to him, which I did not understand because I could not do it myself. He demanded the money because I could not speak English, only a little, after quarreling a while, the wife got up and the man also, and he shot the farmer in the right hand with the pistol, and the woman with the one in the left. The man fell to the floor, but the woman did not fall. She picked up the coal shovel and came towards me, which I was still standing at the door, and struck at me, and fell at the same time to the floor. Bodenburg again loaded his pistols and shot the little boy dead. He shot twice at him, so far as I know. He then loaded again, and shot the farmer once more, and gave me the empty pistols, which was my own; in the meantime I hit the farmer's wife with the coal shovel, as she still was not dead yet.—We then went into the bed room and broke open the bureau and chest with an axe, and found gold and silver and $250 in paper money and divided it equally. The amount of gold and silver I don't know. We divided it but did not count it. I put mine in a bag and stuck it in a pair of pants which was lying on the bed, and wrapped it in a black cloth. He also took a cloth and overcoat and boots, and then we went out into the horse stable, where he wanted to get on a horse which I did not agree to. We then came to a quarrel and he threatened to shoot me, and pulled out his pistol, and I pulled out mine which was not loaded, but still in the same condition he gave it to me. I soon loaded it and told him let us go. He says not yet, we will burn the house down so that the people will think that they were burned. We took a bundle of straw, and I went in and laid it in the room, and put bed clothes to it, and he put the fire to it whilst I was watching at the window.

After this we went away towards the railroad, and he said on the road that he wanted to visit a good friend a few days, and wanted to present him the pistols and asked whether I would not give him mine too. I told him if he would give me $4.00, what it cost me, I would, and he gave me $4 in silver. I did not trust him right, and shot it off first, and asked him to shoot his off too.—We came by this time to Huntingdon and said here till the train arrived going to Altoona. What became of these pistols I cannot say. He never told me. I see it now that I went along, but it is too late. He here in the jail took up his religion again, and took this ground before the world to make himself free, but it did not save him from death. I believe in God and eternity, and do not like when others want to tell me, out of the church. I have given myself to God, and expect his mercy, after I have received my trouble.

Neither of us is innocent of the death penalty. This is the correct and the whole truth. This I speak before God, when I come to the foot-stool of mercy and throw myself upon Him who is my stand-by; and this is the reason I am ready to leave this world. I wish all well when I leave, after I have lived forty years.

Yours truly, GOTLEIB VON BOHNER.

NOTE.—A few sentences in conclusion, expressive of thanks to Deputy Sheriff Fouse, to whom this revelation was made, and his family, for kindness shown him during his imprisonment, are omitted by request.

THE EXECUTION.

Wednesday, the day of the execution was ushered in by a bright and golden sun, and early in the morning the streets were filled by a throng of people, anxiously awaiting the hour when the prisoners would be sent by the last resort of the law into eternity. Many a thought was had for the prisoners, and even the boldest hearted must have felt a nervous quiver as he contemplated the scene that was to be enacted to-day.

All the preparations for the execution had been made in due time. The scaffold is erected in the rear of the jail, and is twenty-three feet high. The platform around the scaffold was about thirteen feet from the ground, and is reached by steps. The trap doors swing to each side, and admit of a width when open of two and a half feet. The rope was of the best hemp.

The coffins were made of pine and painted a dark color.

Around the jail wall and a short distance from it, there were a number of platforms erected to such a height by private citizens as to afford a full view of the whole progress of the execution.

We entered the cell about 8:30 o'clock and found Bohner lying on his bed smoking a cigar and reading a German Bible, as unconcerned as a man well could be. Bodenburg was leaning against his cell door, looking very much depressed in spirits and occasionally pacing his cell in a very uneasy manner. At 9 o'clock the cell doors were closed to all but the ministers and Spiritual advisers.

Bohner was up to a late hour last night, laughing and talking to those in the cell, and smoking cigars given him by those present. Bodenberg was restless and uneasy, walking his cell and occasionally consulting his spiritual advisers. He did not sleep any, but Bohner laid down at one o'clock and slept about two hours. Both ate a hearty breakfast this morning.

THE EXECUTION.

Preparatory to bringing the prisoners from the cell, their hobbles and manacles were removed, at quarter past twelve, and their arms pinioned. At twenty-five minutes after twelve they were brought from the cell in the following order: Sheriff D. R. P. Neely in advance, Bohner, with hat off, supported by Deputy F. S. Fouse, next Revs. Steckel and Sykes, followed by Bodenburg, supported by Deputy H. C. Weaver. The prisoners were taken on to the scaffold, having to go up a flight of fifteen steps. Neither of them showed any emotion of fear, and remained silent while the sheriff bound their feet. On the scaffold near the prisoners were Sheriff Neely, Revs. Steckel, Sykes, and Jas. C. Clarke, and Deputies Fouse and Weaver.

When their feet had been bound, Rev. J. H. Sykes, of Martinsburg, Blair county, delivered a short prayer in German.

Bordenburg then produced and read in German, in a clear and distinct tone, the following paper which he had written yesterday.

"Charley (Bohner), the time is now getting very short for us to live; then we will have to appear before the judgment-seat of God. We will then receive our just reward for the deeds done in the body, be they good or evil. You have often sworn and promised to me that you would bring about my release. I therefore now once more pray you, in the name of God, to tell the truth, if you cannot or will not save my life, at least save your own poor soul from everlasting damnation, there is still some time. I know only too well that something still remains in your heart which tells you, unmistakably enough, that which you say to be directly contrary to the truth. Your perverted mind does not permit it.—Your senses are too frightened to allow you power to tell the truth; neither can you humbly prostrate yourself before the throne of our Lord Jesus Christ, and ask and entreat Him to convert you can do whatever you choose, but pray tell me what pleasure can it be to you that I be hung with you?

"I have fortunately not depended much upon you, for I think I know you. You have no feeling for your fellow-man. I believe very confidently, that the Court would not condemn me to die, since I went with you for the sole purpose of stealing the money. Nor have I taken the life of any man, in full conciousness of which I can die.

"If you reflect upon this affair, how terribly you battered the woman's head with the shovel, you will perceive who will accuse you when we shall meet before the bar of God. I cannot consider it just that you should be allowed more than myself, since I told the truth from the first. All this appears not to have been considered before the court. I could do nothing for myself; I had neither money nor friends; I could only tell the truth.

"Every one cries 'Away with him!' No one takes mercy on me excepting our God. It is true I did what I should not have done, in that I shared the money, because I knew nothing of the murder. Yet this cannot condemn me to death. Men may think of me what they please; I know that I took the life of no man, and Almighty God is my witness. I now return my sincere thanks to each one who showed me a kindness during my time of imprisonment, and to every one farewell.

ALBERT BODENBERG.

At the conclusion of the reading Bohner replied to Bodenburg: "We have both been in. We are both guilty of death."

Bordenburg replied: "Shame on you; shame on you, you know that I killed none."

Rev. Jas. C. Clarke, of this place, then delivered a short prayer, beseeching Heaven to have mercy on the souls of the criminals.

The rope was attached by the Sheriff to the necks of the prisoners at quarter of 1 o'clock. The ministers then bade them each farewell, after which Bodenburg offered up the following prayer: "O, Lord Jesus, for give my sins, and take my poor soul into thy kingdom. Amen, amen, amen."

As soon as his prayer was concluded the Sheriff covered their heads with the black muslin caps, and bade them farewell. While they were talking, the Sheriff waved his hand to Deputy Fouse, who pulled the rope attached to the prop under the trap doors, and both the doomed men were launched into eternity.

They made a few convulsions, but these were not very perceptible. The following physicians examined them as they hung: A. B. Brumbaugh, of Huntingdon. G. W. Thomson, of Mt. Union, J. F. Thompson, of Scottsville,

TO THE WORKING CLASS.—

We are now prepared to furnish all classes with constant employment at home, the whole of time or for the spare moments. Business new, light and profitable. Persons of either sex easily earn from 50 cents to $ dollars per evening, and a proportional sum by devoting their whole time to the business. Boys and girls earn nearly as much as men. That all who see this notice may send their address, and test the business, we make this unparalleled offer: To such as are not well satisfied we will send $1 to pay for the trouble of writing. Full particulars, a valuable sample, which will do to commence work on, and a copy of the "People's Literary Companion"—one of the largest and best family newspapers published—all sent free by mail. Reader if you want permanent, profitable work, address E. C. ALLEN & CO., Augusta, Maine. Dec. 1, 3m.

THE Great American Health Restorer, purifies the blood and cures Scrofula, Syphilis, Skin Diseases, Rheumatism, Diseases of Women and all Chronic Affections of the Blood, Liver and Kidneys. Recommended by the Medical Faculty and thousand of our best citizens.

Read the testimony of Physicians and patients who have used Rosadalis send for our Rosadalis Guide to Health or Almanac for this year, which we publish for gratuitous distribution; it will give you much valuable information.

Dr. R. W. Carr, of Baltimore says:

I take pleasure in recommending your Rosadalis as a very powerful alterative. I have seen it used in two cases with happy results—one in case of secondary syphilis, in which the patient pronounced himself cured after having taken five bottles of your medicine. The other is a case of scrofula of long standing, which is rapidly improving under its use, and the indications are that the patient will soon recover. I have carefully examined the formula by which your Rosadalis is made, and find it an excellent compound of all alterative ingredients.

Dr. Sparks, of Nicholasville, Ky., says he has used Rosadalis in cases of scrofula and secondary Syphilis with satisfactory results—as a cleaner of the blood I know no better remedy.

Samuel G. McFadden, Murfreeboro' Tennessee, says:

I have used seven bottles of Rosadalis, and am entirely cured of Rheumatism; send me four bottles, as I wish it for my brother, who has scrofulous sore eyes.

Benjamin Bechtol, of Lima, Ohio, writes, I have suffered for twenty years with an inveterate eruption over my body; a short time since I purchased a bottle of Rosadalis and it effected a perfect cure.

Rosadalis is sold by John Read and S. S. Smith, Huntingdon, Pa., and Druggists generally.

LORILLARD'S "EUREKA" SMOKING TOBACCO

is an excellent article of granulated Virginia wherever introduced it is universally admired. It is put up in handsome muslin bags, in which orders for Merchants Pipes are daily packed.

LORILLARD'S "Yacht Club" SMOKING TOBACCO,

classed by all who consume it as the "finest of all." It is made of the choicest leaf grown; it is individual in its effects, as the Nicotine has been extracted; it leaves no disagreeable taste after smoking; it is very mild, light in color and in weight, hence one pound will last as long as 3 of ordinary tobacco. In this brand we also pack orders every day for first class Meerchaum Pipes. Try it and convince yourselves it is all it claims to be, "The Finest of All."

LORILLARD'S CENTURY CHEWING TOBACCO.

This brand of Fine Cut chewing tobacco has no equal or superior anywhere. It is without doubt the best chewing tobacco in the country.

LORILLARD'S SNUFFS

have now been in general use in the United States over 110 years and well acknowledged "the best" wherever used.

If your storekeeper does not have these articles for sale, ask him to get them; they are sold by respectable jobbers almost everywhere.

McGUIRE'S

SPANISH HAIR DRESSER

FOR PROMOTING THE GROWTH, BEAUTIFYING THE HAIR,

And rendering it dark and glossy. No other compound possesses the peculiar properties which so exactly suit the various conditions of the human hair. The use of this oil as a hair dresser has been universal in every section of the country in the Spanish Main for centuries.—No preparation of art could give that elegant luxuriance and abundance of hair which have so often been the admiration of travelers in Spain. This oil is highly and delicately perfumed, forming an article unrivaled in excellence and upon which the Spanish people for many years have set its seal of enduring approval.

McGUIRE'S

Mexican Wild Flowers Shampoo Lotion

For removing dandruff and scurf from the head, whitening and perfuming the skin. This article is entirely different from anything of the kind ever offered in this country and is warranted free from all poisonous substances This valuable lotion was used by the Emperor Maximilian, and Empress Carlotta of Mexico, and universally used by Mexicans for three hundred years. As a wash for the head—it is cooling, cleansing and refreshing.—When thus used it at once relieves headache.

McGUIRE'S

WILD FLOWERS FOR THE TEETH.

All those who are in favor of white teeth and a pleasant and perfumed breath should at once use McGuire's Wild Flowers for the Teeth. All these preparations are put up in the most elegant and ornamental manner. We make no exception in saying that they are an ornament to a lady's toilet table, and none complete without them.

Warranted satisfactory or money refunded. Dealers will bear this in mind. Sold by all respectable Druggists in the United States and Canadas. Address orders to

GET THE BEST

READY ROOFING

Suitable for all buildings, Dwellings, barns, churches, factories, &c., and for all climates; equally adapted to flat or steep roofs, and can be applied by any ordinary workman.

THE READY ROOFING

Is more durable than tin, and does not cost one-half as much. It is cheaper than shingles, for more durable, and fire-proof. It is made of the heaviest fabric ever used for the purpose, and is put up in rolls ready for shipment to any part of the world. Send for circular and samples (sent free.)

We also manufacture

GRANITE CEMENT,

For repairing all kinds of leaky roofs, chimneys, skylights, &c. This Roofing Cement forms a permanent elastic coating over the whole surface of all roofs, whether tin, shingle or composition, completely closing up all leakages, and being composed largely of ground granite, which sets and hardens, and soon becomes an artificial slate or Stone covering.

ROOF PAINT,

For coating Tin and all kinds of metal and composition roofs. It will not run, crack, or peal off, but forms a permanent and perfect protection, wherever placed. It is furnished at half the cost, and possesses twice the durability of the common oil paints used for such purposes.
